World's Series May Be Played by Red Sox and Braves If They Hold Pace

BOSTON THREATENS TO STAGE SERIES FOR OWN DELIGHT

Red Sox Holding Stiff Pace and Braves Are Making Drive Against Dodgers.

RECORD IS ENLIGHTENING

Eddie Ainsmith Out of Game for Remainder of Year With Fractured Finger.

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

The world's series of 1916 may yet beplayed in Boston, without any journeying around the land, either. Both the Red Sox and the Braves are shaping up as pennant winners in their own circuits, and they may contest against each other for the greatest glory of them all.

This week, counting last Sunday's games for the National Leaguers, has seen the Red Box win four out of five games, with the Braves making a clean sweep of five straight,

The Red Sox show no signs of cracking. Thei roitchers have allowed but five runs and thirty-six hits to opponents. Carrigan's huriers are delivering the right stuff at the right time.

The worst exhibition of the week has been that of the White Sox. Rowland's men have yet to win a game, dropping all five played.

The Braves, winning five straight, have gaine don the Dodgera, who have broken even in six contests. Two and a half gamer behind the leaders are the Braves today, and many believe that Stallings will crowd his way to the front before another week has slipped away. Alten, Hughes, and Rudolph are hanging up strings of victories for the Braves without much of a strain.

Following are the records of both leagues for this week, beginning last Sunday:

Eddie Ainsfish is out of the game for the remainder of the season with a broken finger on his right hand. An x-ray examination discloses a fracture of the fourth finger which will keep him from throwing.

The Griffmen have killed another Jinx. deorge Dauss was slaughtered a few days ago and now "Woot Woot" Woif-gang has been drawn and quartered and exposed to the four winds of heaven. No wonder the Capitolians are chuck-

Chief executioners were Hank Shanks, the merry Monacan, and George McBride, the aged and decrepit and totterveteran. Between them they whaled the enemy for five bingles and drove in three runs. Hank, in addition, came across the pan twice himself.

Harry Harper is now within one victory of the required fifteen, that will give nim his bonus for the year, thanks to yesterday's contest. But the elongated southpaw is suffering from a sore wing and, with the game on ice, he faded from the scenery to let Jim Shaw finish the game in fine style.

Claude Williams, a clever little south-paw, tantaitzed the Griffs for four frames, holding them to two hits. Then the roof fell in on him. Meanwhile, the White Sox were seeking the victory for White Sox were seeking the victory for themselves.

In the second, with one down, Schalk singled and so did Zeb Terry. A double steal advanced them. Williams' single scored Schalk, but Terry died at the plate. "Shano" Collins doubled, but Williams stopped at third and both were left when Weaver whiffed.

Williams opened the fifth with another single to right, "Shano" Collins' second double putting him on third. He scored on Weaver's sacrifice fly.

Williams was punished in the fifth, the Griffs equaling the count. Shanks and Judge singled, and when McBride did likewise, the Monacan scooted across. Henry's long fly scored Judge. Roland sent in a pinch hitter for Williams in the sixth, which proved fine for the Griffs. It brought Wolfgang to the hillock for the last half, and he was knocked down, kicked around, picked up, and finally flattened. and finally flattened.

With one down in the seventh, Harper complained of a sore flipper and marched off the field. Shaw came in and retired the enemy in one-two-three order to the end. He looked like a regular pitcher.

Mackmen May Tell Who Will Win Glories

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics, the jokes of the league until now, may eventually say just where the pennant will go in October. It doesn't pay to belittle the weakling in baseball.

Some years ago it was the meek and lowly Washington club which destroyed the pennant hopes of the Cleveland Naps. Just as Lajole's lads were about to run helterskelter through all opposition, they bumped up against the misfit collection of Washingtonians and blew their Washingtonians and blew their chances.

This season Connie Mack's club is playing the same role.

At last, after experimenting until he grew tired, Mack has settled upon a line-up for the remainder of the year. And it is a line-up that will cause trouble to every contender in the race, admittedly the hottest in the history of the league.

On their first swing through the West the Mackmen dropped all fiften games played. On their second trip they won just one game and dropped more than twenty. It was on that trip that they lost twenty-two games in a row, equaling the on that trip that they lost twenty-two games in a row, equaling the league record.

But no one who knows baseball be-lieves that the Mackmen will come anywhere near making such a poor record on their next and last trip through the West. Connie's Twirlers.

Connie Mack has suffered from poor pitching all season long, but be has now got together a little be has now got together a little staff which is showing the real stuff. Joe Bush, Nabors, Sheehan, Myers, and Johnson are pitching the kind of ball that makes for victories. They have plugged the worst hole in the Mackmen, the pitching staff.

Now that Connie has stopped trying out dozens of hamfatters, collegians and amateurs, his line-uplooks dangerous. The Brownies looked for soft stuff and bumped into an even break. They had to fight for even that. The Cleveland Indians have had no cinch over in Shibe Park. The Mackmen are no longer jokes, that's all.

On their coming swing through the West the Mackmen may upset all the dope of the Tigers, Brownies, and White Sox, absolutely reversing what has gone before.

Must Tackle Red Sox. Before the season closes the Mack-men must yet tackle the Red Sox. Suppose Carrigan's clan, following Suppose Carrigan's clan, following their last Western trip, is only a game or so in the lead. Suppose Connie uses his strongest line-up, with Bush, Myers, etc., on the rubber. The Red Sox may easily drop into second place, lesing the greatest prize when it is almost in their hands.

The Mackmen, the laughing stock of the American League, may yet decide where the championship will go. They will do this if they maintain their present pace, for they are playing real baseball these days.

Georgetown's Campaign. Georgetown's football campaign is sure to be most strenuous this sea-

West Virginia Wesleyan is by no means easy. Don't forget Fordham at home on Labor Day. George Washington should provide stiff opposition right here in Washington. Bucknell, ranking close to the top on the gridiron, must be played at the Hilltop.

The campaign will close at New Orleans, a long jump before playing Tulane, one of the best football elevens in the South.

If you've had any idea that Georgetown would romp through its opponents this season, you're all wrong, Genevieve.
